INTERNATIONAL VASCULAR CORK

31st October & 1st November 2019

Course Outline

International Vascular Cork Course is being held in The ASSERT Centre, College of Medicine & Health, UCC, Cork on the 31st October & 1st November 2019.

This course is geared towards vascular surgical trainees and practising vascular surgeons who wish to develop their skills in open dissection, endovascular procedures and vascular ultrasound.

Participants will gain hands-on experience with open surgical dissection and reconstruction procedures on cadavers in our state-of-the-art surgical skills laboratory. The simulated operating rooms feature integrated audiovisual facilities to allow for real time and post-procedure feedback from expert faculty. There will be 2-3 participants per cadaver and each participant will spend a full day on this component of the course.

The second day will be dedicated to endovascular procedures and vascular ultrasound. Interventions ranging from basic to more challenging cases will be performed on Mentice Simulators. One-to-one instruction on Vascular Ultrasound will be provided by experienced vascular technicians with volunteer actors as patient models.

Pre-course reading material will be provided.

The course is limited to 16 places, these will be offered on a first come first served basis.
